Clemie Lowe is identified from daughter Margaret's marriage and death certificates.
 "Magret" Hamilton, daughter, living at 10 Lylesland, Paisley, was the informant on Clementina Lowe's death certificate. Clementina was single.
 Clementina's birth date ex Logie Pert OPR christening record (Ref 304/1). Birth and death records provide similar parents' names.
 From 1851 to 1881 censuses, Clementina was living with the same family, that of Frank & Jane Baird. Frank was a master brewer. Margaret was never with her.
 At the time of the 1881 census the Baird family were living at 20 Bellhaven Terrace which was the address given on Clementina's death certificate.

There seems to be no record of Margaret's birth.

We believe that the daughter named above as Margaret Henry / Kay is in fact Margaret Low, the illegitimate daughter of Clementina Low. Margaret's marriage certificate tells us that when she married Archibald Hamilton, she had an unmarried mother Clemie Low. Margaret Hamilton, daughter, was the informant on Clementina Low's death certificate, which also gave Clemie's place of birth and her parents names.

In the 1871 and 1881 censuses, Margaret's place of birth is given as Glasgow, Lanarks. In 1891 and 1901 this changes to Barrhead, Renfrews.

We have found no record of Margaret's birth anywhere in Glasgow or Renfrewshire with surname Low, Lowe, Henry, Kay or Kaye.

We have found Clementina in censuses from 1851 to 1881 (the last before her death) living with the family of Frank Baird, master brewer. No sign of daughter Margaret.

After she married, Margaret used the surnames of Kay, Hopkins and Lowe as middle names for her children.

The Margaret Kay that was living with James & Mary Kay in 1861 gave her birthplace as Glasgow, Lanarkshire. That same Margaret had the name Margaret Henry in the 1841 census. The informant on James Kay's death certificate was James HAMILTON, nephew.

Margaret Low Wyse remembers visiting "the aunts Kay" at Springfield Cottage when she was very young (recollection of Margaret Wright).

This is all circumstantial evidence but the argument appears to be strong

It is likely that the unnamed father of Margaret Low(e) could have had the surname Henry.

CLEMIE & MARGARET LOWE

- Clemie was alive in 1861 per daughter Margaret's marriage certificate, no fathers name given. Clemie died 23-06-1886 in Glasgow and was unmarried.
- James Kay, born Ayrshire, married Mary Hopkins in 1836 at Mauchline.
- In 1841 Barrhead Village census there was a Margaret Henry aged 2 living with James & Mary Kay. Margaret was born in Renfrewshire, but not James or Mary.
- In 1861 Paisley Abbey census (8th April) at Kayes House, James and Mary Kay were living with daughter Margaret aged 22, dairymaid, born Glasgow.
- On 17th June 1861 Margaret Lowe, dairymaid, aged 23, married Archibald Hamilton.
- In 1891 Barrhead census at Springfield Cottage, James & Mary Kay were living with Mary Hamilton, their niece, aged 16, born Paisley (d. of Margaret & Archibald Hamilton).
- When James Kay died in 1892, James Hamilton, nephew, was the informant.
- On Archibald Hamilton's death certificate in 1902, wife Margaret gave her name as Margaret Lowe Kay.

- No birth of Margaret Low(e), Kay or Henry with a mother Clemie or Clementina in Renfrew, Lanarks, Dunbarton or Glasgow IGI.

It seems possible that soon after Clemie Low(e) gave birth to Margaret, the child was adopted by James & Mary Kay (family record C1).

There is no evidence of other Kay children so maybe they could not have children of their own.

This might explain why Margaret Hamilton's children James Kay Hamilton and Mary Hopkins Hamilton were regarded as niece and nephew.

Margaret Henry and Margaret Lowe Kay were probably the same person.

A Margaret Henry was born in 1838 in Ayrshire, no parents names given

Where did the Henry come from ? Could Margaret's father have had surname Henry ?

In 1881 Margaret HAMILTON (née Lowe) gave her age as 42, born Glasgow

In 1891 she gave her age as 52, born Barrhead.

In both the 1851 and 1881 Glasgow Census, Clemie was a domestic servant (Nurse) at the home of Frank Baird, a master brewer and his family. Clemie worked there until her death in 1886.

Conclusion :

We think it is possible that Clemie left her home in Dundee and moved to Ayrshire / Renfrewshire, probably to work as a maid. She became pregnant and had Margaret but could not look after her. James and Mary Kay adopted her. Margaret's father may have been called ?? Henry, hence the surname in the 1841 census and the 1838 birth record with no parents names. When Margaret grew up she may have been introduced to her mother Clemie, so that she entered her birth name of Margaret Lowe on her marriage certificate. The fact that she had been adopted by the Kay's would be the reason she gave her name as Margaret Lowe Kay on her husband's death certificate.
