Brian Payne has identified the man on the right as his father John Alexander Payne. He thought the man on the left was Jack Crosbie, but Audrey Crosbie his daughter does not agree.

The picture might have been taken in the Murray Arms garden about August 1928 when John was 23.

We believe the bench is now in the garden of Roseville, having been recently restored.

Here is a picture of one of the rooms at Roseville (note the African artefacts).

Alexander McCutcheon and Frances Rattray married and at some stage went to live at a farm called Buchan in Glentool. There they bred ramsites which are a cross between a female fox (vixen) and a male labrador. Here is a short, silent U-Tube film which was recorded in 1959 and which purports to show Alex. and Frances McCutcheon and their ramsites :-
