

Development of Birtwhistle Street

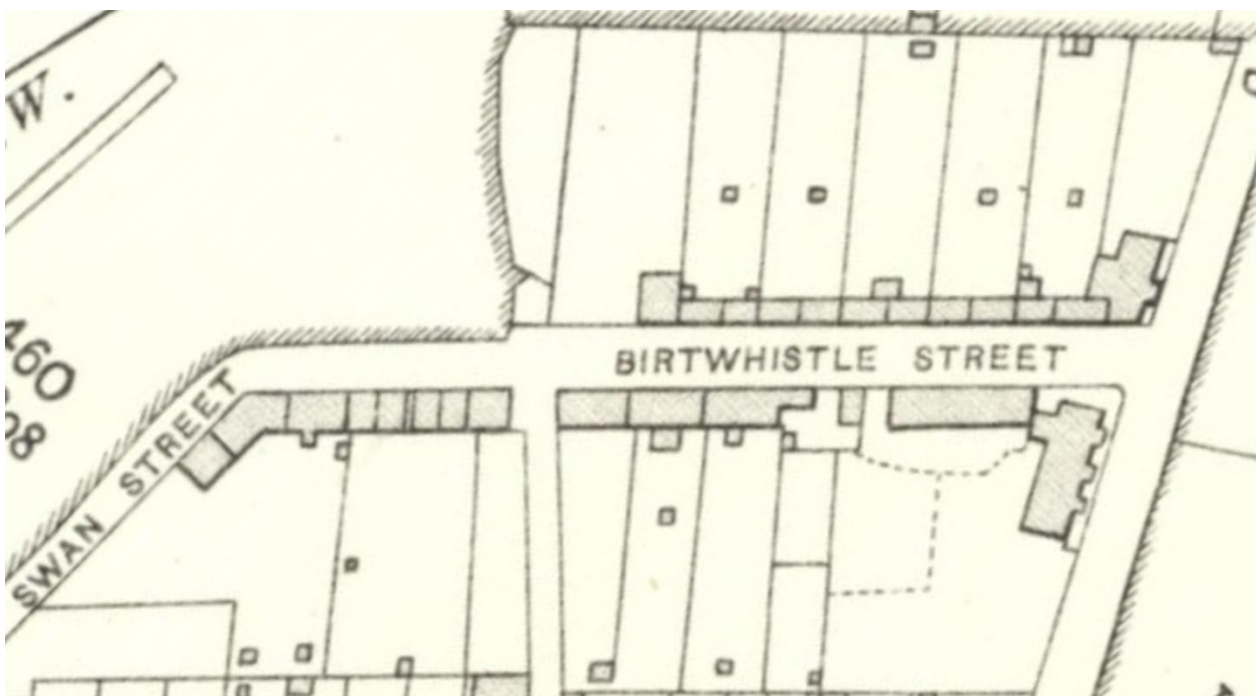

1854

There are terraces of houses along the north and south sides of the street.
No East View, West View or Woodlyn. No extensions at the rear.

1895

One or two houses at the west end of the north side seem to have been demolished and the larger building that remains seems to be West View.
East View and Woodlyn appear to exist at their current sizes along Castramont Road. There is a gap in the middle of the south side.

1907

Some building extensions at the rear. The “warden’s flat” at the rear of Woodlyn was not added until about 1977.
